Triumvirate Glacier and Mt. Spurr Volcano Tour

2 hours

This trip leaves Anchorage daily and heads north over the dense forests of the Susitna Valley. On your way to the glacier there will be perfect opportunities to spot for moose, grizzly bears, swans, and eagles. Mt. Spurr is an active volcano that last erupted in 1992 and dominates this area in the Alaska Range. Flightseeing over this area you will get a great view of the way the volcano formed the area, and how the glacier is still forming it. The Triumvirate Glacier is a blue giant with a light dusting of ash from the last Spurr eruption and the recent eruption of Mt. Redoubt. After great views of this area we will make a water landing on Beluga Lake to stop and stretch our legs on a sandy beach. After the stop at this wilderness lake the flightseeing continues over the shores of the Cook Inlet where you will look for feeding Beluga Whales on your way back into Anchorage.

Rate: $285.00 per person

Mt. McKinley Flight seeing Tour

3 hours

This Denali Park flightseeing tour is sure to be the highlight of your trip to Alaska. Our 3 hour flightseeing tour of Mt. McKinley and Denali National Park departs Anchorage daily, and flies North into the majestic country of Denali. As you head towards Mt. McKinley you will climb up and get spectacular views of Anchorage and the Chugach Mountains. Once in Denali National Park you will get once in a lifetime view of some of the world's largest and most incredible glaciers, glacial ice falls, sheer vertical cliffs. You will be immersed in 360 degrees of breathtaking scenery. After the journey around Mt. McKinley and through Denali National Park we will make a water landing on Chelatna Lake. This high mountain lake is tucked scenically into the McKinley foot hills. There, we will get out of the plane onto a beautiful sandy beach and stretch our legs after this epic flightseeing tour. After taking in the fresh mountain air at Chelatna Lake we descend towards Anchorage along beautiful braided Alaskan Rivers spotting for wildlife.

Brooks Falls Katmai National Park

10 hours

Brooks Falls in Katmai National Park gives you the world famous views of Grizzly Bears catching wild salmon as they stand atop a waterfall. Brooks Falls bear viewing is the true definition of a wilderness destination. It is located in the heart of Katmai National Park in south west Alaska. This one of a kind bear habitat is sure to please whoever visits. Your Katmai Bear Viewing Adventure begins when you depart Anchorage on one of our aircraft and head south along the Cook Inlet. This scenic flight takes you on a route by 2 active volcanoes, numerous salmon streams, and glaciers on your way to Lake Clark Pass – a mountain pass used by bush pilots for years to get back and forth across the Alaska Range. Landing at Katmai you begin to see why Brown Bears choose to make this place their home. Salmon streams, mountain backdrops, large lakes, and thick forests surround you on this excursion. After getting out of the plane you will go through a quick bear orientation with one of the park rangers. From there it is off to explore this bear country. A short walk through the park to a bear viewing platform which will provide you with shots of a lifetime of bears catching salmon as they make their way up Brooks Falls. After you spend a few hours bear viewing a hearty pack lunch will be served, and then it is back out to catch these bears in action.

Departs: 8:00am Rate: $845/ per person

Bear Viewing at Silver Salmon Creek

7 hours

Your Silver Salmon Creek Bear Viewing Adventure begins when you depart Anchorage on one of our aircraft and head south along the Cook Inlet. The flight in itself will be a highlight of your trip; this scenic route takes you by 3 active volcanoes, numerous salmon streams, glaciers, and other Alaskan sights. The flight down takes about 1 hour, once there the aircraft will land on the beach of Silver Salmon Creek at low tide. Your naturalist bear guide will meet the plane on the beach and bring you up to the lodge for a bear orientation via 4-wheeler. From the lodge you will go out into this ideal bear habitat to watch these creatures interact with each other in the wild. Your guide will take you through the park, adding to your safety and answering any questions you may have about the bears. The area is excellent for viewing the bears because of the layout and geography; it is a 5 miles stretch of prairie grassland beachfront. Watch as they frolic in the grass with their cubs, dig for clams, and take afternoon naps. This area is home mostly to Brown Bears, but it is not uncommon to see a few Black Bears in the area as well. After Bear Viewing head back to the lodge for a hardy homemade lunch and refreshments. Relax in the comfort of one of the nicest lodges in Alaska for a while before heading back out for the afternoon session with the bears.

Prince William Sound Surprise Glacier Cruise

5.25 hours

May 17-August 31

Come experience for yourself the serenity of cruising Prince William Sound and the grandeur of its ever-changing glaciers. Glaciers, waterfalls, harbor seals, sea otters and bald eagles are all just a part of the experience aboard our smooth sailing catamaran. This 6 hour cruise will voyage past an active salmon hatchery where you can view salmon leaping from the water before cruising through Esther Passage. Tucked away in the privacy of sky-scraping mountains, Esther Passage is a prime location to view varied wildlife, on land and water. Bird rookeries pepper the shores with nesting kittiwakes. Bears, sea otters, and whales have also been seen throughout surrounding areas. Once through Esther Passage, we will cruise up Barry Arm located in Harriman Fjords; it is at this point in the tour that we reach the highlight of the day- Surprise Glacier! The vessel slowly approaches this immense glacier, maneuvering through the floating icebergs on which sun-bathing harbor seals can be seen.

Gold Rush Canyoneering

Journey to Alaska's gold rush for canyoneering, rappelling and hiking in Glacier Valley. Adventure into the remote dry canyon sculpted by hydro-mining utilizing harnesses, ropes, gloves, helmets and ladders to reach destinations including a thundering waterfall, caves and mossy canyons. Crow Creek Road winds through the Chugach Mountains spruce and hemlock rainforests along the Iditarod National Historic Trail. We look for black bears foraging in the underbrush on the way as we transport you to Crow Creek Gold Mine which has been continuously operating and producing gold for over 100 years. Rappelling 50' into the canyon adds the challenge of descending the vertical wall with harness belay devices and ropes to the lush canyon below. Hiking the canyon requires avoiding small streams, so sturdy boots or shoes are required. Two steep pitch rappels access the no turn back zone and a 50' waterfall in this Jurassic-like area. Ascending dry canyons, sculpted by years of tumbling glacier water provides obstacles along the way. These challenges require climbing ladders, optional rock climbing, gripping ropes and balancing on boulders in steep terrain. Bring sturdy footwear, long pants, small camera and a sense of gold rush adventure.

Iceberg Hike at Spencer Whistle Stop

book this with the Alaska Railroad

May 28 – September 18

This iceberg hike coincides with the Alaska Railroad. Take the train out to the Spencer Whistle Stop and hike to Spencer Glacier- up to 4 miles round trip in about 3 hrs on flat graveled US Forest Service trails past blue icebergs and along a beautiful glacial fed lake. The Spencer Glacier is located just south of Portage and is entirely off the road system, so we ride the train, which offers breathtaking views of glaciers and alpine peaks. When you unload off the train, hikers board a van for a 1 mile driver to the edge of Spencer Lake. You will traverse 1.4 miles of Spencer Lake in stable tandem sea kayaks. This trip includes a deli lunch (veggie or turkey sandwich and sides, please give 2 week notice for special dietary restrictions), snacks and water, naturalist guide, bear protection and ecology and glaciology discussions. Guests should wear comfortable warm clothes, dress in layers, wear hiking boots or running shoes, and bring a backpack and camera. Restroom facilities are located on the train and outhouses are at the Spencer Whistle Stop. This is an easy to moderate activity.

Spencer Glacier Ice Climbing – by railroad! Need shoe sizes

9 hours

May 28 – September 18

From the Spencer Whistle Stop, our small group of 4 or less hop on a van for a short ride to our lake edge Basecamp. We use Tandem Sea Kayaks to cross the lake to get to the Ice. The approach itself includes outstanding views of the glacier and Icebergs floating in the Spencer terminal lake. The total distance of Kayaking to the glacier is 1.5 Miles of flat lake water with Icebergs aplenty. The 1 hour approach includes many photo & rest stops to learn about interesting local wildlife, history and glaciology. At the Glaciers' edge we gear up with helmets and crampons. After more safety lessons and crampon practice, groups travel up onto the glacier ice and to the Ice walls. Climbers will have about 3 hours to take turns top-roping amazing Ice walls and exploring other features (blue ice, crevasses, ice caves, moulins, etc) with your skilled and experienced guide. 2 person minimum; lunch and rail included. Alpine Hikes on Alyeska Glacier

3-4 hours

June 1 – September 18

The small Alyeska Glacier is nestled above the Alyeska Ski Resort in the Chugach Mountains. Guests ride the scenic Alyeska Tram from sea level up to 2,300 feet. From the upper mountain tram, we hike a scenic ridgeline surrounded by the Turnagain Arm and the Seven Glaciers of the Girdwood Valley. Your naturalist glacier guide tailors the pace based on the group's overall fitness level by making interpretive, photo & rest stops along the way. We hike a distance of 1 mile round trip with an 800 foot elevation gain. At the glacier's edge we gear up with harnesses, ropes and/or crampons, NEOS over-boots and teach about glacier travel. We explore the features of the Alyeska Glacier, experience glacier travel & glacial climate change first hand and explain how glaciers are formed. Trips include all equipment, naturalist glacier guides, tram ticket, 5:1 ratio and interpretive natural history, ecology and glaciology discussions. A trail snack and water is provided. Nature Hike

2-3 hours

May 28 – September 18

The Winner Creek Trail, (part of the Historic Iditarod Trail), in the lush rainforest of Girdwood is a wonderful hike and a memorable experience for everyone. A guided hike with Ascending Path is different from hiking the trail on your own; our naturalist guides are knowledgeable and will point out and discuss the flora and fauna of North America's northern-most temperate rainforest. When blueberry season is in full swing the trail is blooming with scrumptious delights sure to please anyone. You may even see a moose or a bear! The trail has gentle, graded, maintained sections with boardwalks as well as plenty of rugged, rooty sections of trail. Our 2-3 hour team paced hike includes: a snack and a naturalist guided 5-mile (round trip) hike along the Winner Creek trail. Trips start & finish at the Hotel Alyeska. Crow Pass Alpine Day Hike

5 hrs

May 28 – September 18

Crow Pass is one of South Central Alaska's top day hikes. Ascend from temperate rainforest to the transition of a sub-alpine ecosystem as we drive from Alyeska Resort to the Crow Pass trailhead. As Crow Pass is a wildlife corridor and bear country, signs of bear activity and occasional sightings may occur as well as moose, Dall sheep, fox and the elusive wolf. For the first 2 miles of our hike we will enjoy the sounds of songbirds & distant waterfalls, learn about the flora and fauna of the sub-alpine and nibble on edible flowers and berries. As this hike is mostly uphill for 3 miles, we will take plenty opportunity for rest, photos, snacks, lunch and interpretation. The last mile of the hike to Crow Pass is amidst the alpine eco-system. We enjoy the unobstructed views of the towering valley peaks, hanging glaciers, river, waterfalls, dwarf alpine plants, wildflowers & berries and mining ruins. The pass is the highest point on the historic Iditarod Trail. Arctic ground squirrels, marmots and mountain goats inhabit the high country near Crow Pass. At the pass we will see the bright blue glacial hue of Crystal Lake and then a bit further to the massive Raven Glacier viewpoint. Since this hike is run out-and-back style, your naturalist guide can tailor the pace and mileage on the groups overall fitness level and desire. A trail snack and water is provided. Wear comfortable warm clothes dressing in layers (fleece jacket, rain jacket/pants, gloves, wool/fleece hat, sunglasses, hat) hiking boots or running shoes. Bring lunch, daypack and a camera. This attire is necessary in order to participate. There is a 2,100 foot elevation gain one-way to Crow Pass and 3 miles distance. Round trip to Crow Pass & Raven Glacier its 6 miles distance.

Kenai River Salmon Fishing

May-September

Different varieties of salmon run through this river, at different times of the year. These are the red salmon, silver salmon, Chinook or King salmon, and the pink salmon. These salmon varieties have two runs a year, with the exception of the pink salmon whose run occurs every other year. The runs for red salmon occur in late in June. Silver salmon return to their spawning grounds at the end of the summer season, specifically the first part of August, and early autumn. Also, they arrive in the latter portion of September. Those wanting to catch larger fish of this variety can do so during the September run. The Chinook or King salmon is the variety that has contributed greatly to the popularity of the Kenai River among sports fishermen. Although not as many of this variety pass through during their runs, they are generally larger than any other King salmon found in Alaska. This variety begins moving up the Kenai River in May, and this continues until the end of July. Limits: 1 king salmon, 3 sock-eye salmon, 3 silver salmon

Departs: 5:30am full-day

The rainbow trout is appealing to fish for because they readily bite and put up an aggressive fight. The Kenai River rainbow trout are known for their massive size and plentiful numbers. The Kenai River rainbow trout is one of the most sought after fish in Kenai, Alaska and anglers appreciate a fly fishing guide to make their Alaskan fishing adventure complete. Kenai River guides are also well versed in all forms of trout and salmon fishing using every type of rod/reel combination.

Red (sockeye) salmon, silver (coho) salmon, and other salmon species are all migrating up the Kenai River in Alaska at certain periods during the season. Find out when the "run" is on for salmon fishing or when the Kenai rainbow trout are biting and book an Alaskan fishing trip with Jason's Guide Service.

All gear is provided for anglers to catch some of the hardest fighting and best eating fish that live in Alaska. While many fish make the run up the river to spawn, it takes a certain skill to locate the perfect spot and use the right technique to ensure success. There will be ample opportunity for photographs on your Alaskan fishing trip so make sure you have a good camera along that can withstand the elements. Anglers must provide their own fishing license, lunch or snacks and beverages. Arrangements can be made to provide food and drink for additional cost.

When it comes to Kenai river fishing trout and sockeye salmon opens on June 11

The sockeye salmon are at peak abundance from mid-July through the first week of August.
